Located in the city of Los Angeles, Cal State L.A.'s 175-acre urban campus is at the heart of the civic and cultural activities of California's largest city. Los Angeles has the distinction of being the entertainment capital of the world, putting it at the center of the film, TV, and record industries in addition to Pacific Rim economic and cultural activity. Two major freeways, several bus systems, and a commuter rail station located on campus grant students easy access to nearby mountains, beaches, museums, cultural centers as well as major sports centers.

LA Campus life, city life.
